Featured Speaker:
Edward G. Boehne, Ph.D.

Edward G. Boehne, Ph.D., joined Haverford Trust Company in 2001 and serves as Senior Economic Adviser. Prior to joining Haverford Trust, Boehne served as President and Chief Executive Officer of the Federal Reserve Bank of Philadelphia from 1981 until his retirement in 2000. He started with the Philadelphia Fed as a research economist in 1968 and steadily rose through the ranks.

His tenure at the Federal Reserve Bank overlapped with significant developments in economic conditions at the local and federal levels. These include both a series of bank takeovers throughout the Third Federal Reserve District (Eastern Pennsylvania, Southern New Jersey, and Delaware) by larger rivals, and the national banking crisis that led to the passage of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation (FDIC) Improvement Act of 1991. Boehne was a former voting member of the Federal Open Market Committee (FOMC), and he was a consistent advocate for local banks and the communities they serve.
